

www.thehideout.org.uk

until children are safe

www.thehideout.org.uk provides help and support for children and young people who are living with domestic violence

The Hideout is the first national website for children and young people to inform about domestic violence and help them identify whether it is happening in their home. The site provides indirect and informal support to children and young people living with domestic violence or to those who may want to help a friend.

The Hideout uses language, graphics, checklists, quizzes and interactive games to help children and young people to think through the issues that surround domestic violence. The site includes information on safety planning and clearly signposts additional routes to help and further information. Safety functions have been incorporated into The Hideout to ensure that children and young people can access the site without putting themselves at risk.

The Hideout is a place for children and young people to learn that domestic violence is not okay, that it is not their fault and that they are not alone - further help and support is available.

www.thehideout.org.uk is produced by Women's Aid, and is supported by BT and BBC Children in Need. Copyright © 2005 Women's Aid Federation of England. Charity number 1054154. For further information please contact 0117 9444411.

